CLUVERIUS EXECUTED.

HE DIES ON THE GALLOWS WITH HIS SECRET UNTOLO.

A Crime That Attracted Attention the World Over—The Slayer and His Victim Each the Descendant of a President of the United States—The Trial.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 14.—The morning broke cloudy to-day. A thick mist hid the light of the sun, and clouds obscured the sky. It was a gloomy, disagreeable beginning of what afterwards proved to be a bright and beautiful day, for at 10 o'clock the mist disappeared, the clouds rolled back, and the atmosphere was as bright and balmy as ever seen in May.

Cluverius was up early. His counsel, Mr. Bev. Crump, parted with him at 2 o'clock this morning, and he afterwards took only a few hours rest without removing his clothes, he ate sparingly but bore up bravely, and seemed to be hopeful. Groups of people gathered around the newspaper offices and the vicinity of the jail, anxious to hear what action, if any, the governor had taken. As the hours wore on the crowds increased, and the excitement became more and more intense. The telephone at the city jail was in constant use asking for the latest news. The governor remained in his private office in the executive mansion and was not seen by any of the counsel. They had done all that they could for their client, but to no avail.

Mr. Bev. Crump, one of the most active of the counsel, came down to the jail about 11 o'clock, and had a talk with the prisoner. Mr. Frank W. Cunningham, who has frequently sung for the prisoner's gratification, also came down, and soon sang with such melody several hymns, one of which, commencing, "How Firm a Foundation Ye Saints of the Lord," greatly affected the prisoner. The excitement incidental to the hanging was greatly augmented by reason of the fact that it was unknown what the action of the governor would be, and there were a great many criticisms upon this, many very severe upon the governor.

A photographer of a very enterprising turn mounted a house top in the neighborhood of the jail, and photographed the thousands of people, that lined the streets.

The prisoners, some three or four hundred in number, mostly negroes, chanted in loud voices, their peculiar hymns while waiting for the hour of execution. The scaffold was erected in the inclosure of the jail yard, and admittance was gained only by a ticket from City Sergeant Smith. Notwithstanding this, the small space left was well filled with people brought out by idle curiosity.

About 11:30 o'clock the prisoner sent for Mr. Beverly Crump, and they had a conference, the exact nature of which is not known. The jail officers were busy at work, testing the rope and making preparations for the execution. The rope was made of silk and weighed one pound and a quarter. The scaffold was made by a colored carpenter of Richmond and is a very primitive structure of pine wood, the drop being about eight feet. The trap was supported by three pieces of scantling, about four by six inches in size. On one side of it the jail walls stood twenty-two feet wide, on the other the jail building, making a narrow corridor of sixteen feet in width and about forty yards in length. Here the crowd assembled packed close together, and above a long gallery on a perfect level with the scaffold were about a hundred people. There were about a score of newspaper men present.

After Mr. Crump reported that the governor had determined not to interfere, Sergeant Smith hurried his preparation for the execution. The crowd on the outside, numbering at least 15,000, yelled and booted, and seemed impatient for the crisis. At 1 o'clock the prisoner was led out of his cell. He wore a neat suit of black diagonal cloth and a waterproof cloak buttoned behind. His arms were pinioned in front, and his step was firm and nervous. The people on the house-tops and in the trees yelled when they saw him descending the steps and this was a signal for a general whoop from the crowd. Down the winding steps of the jail came the procession headed by Deputy Sergeant Macoon, followed by Sergeant J. C. Smith, escorting the prisoner, and behind them Rev. Dr. W. E. Hatcher and Deputy Sergeant Allen.

Cluverius was cool and collected. He did not quiver or show the slightest nervous embarrassment. He stepped quickly and naturally up the long flight of steps, and stopped immediately in the center of the trap-door. He wore a cheap brown hat, and his shoes were of the fashionable cut and neatly polished. His face had on it a beard of seven days' growth, and his countenance seemed fix 1, as if by force of great will power. Sergeant Smith advanced to the front of the scaffold, and in a loud, distinct voice, read the death warrant. Turning to the prisoner after finishing the reading, he said: "Have you anything to say?" to this Cluverius replied in a voice inaudible ten feet away, "Not a word, sir."

Rev. Dr. Hatcher then said: "Let us all pray," and kneeling upon the rough pine boards of the scaffold, offered a fervent appeal to the throne of mercy. During this prayer the prisoner remained standing, no trace of excitement was visible except that his eyes lids quivered every second. His hat had been removed, and his brown hair glistened in the sun-light. When the prayer was ended, the condemned man asked Dr. Hatcher to come near him, and when the doctor did so, a few words in a low voice was said to him. Turning to the crowd below, Dr. Hatcher said: "I am requested by the prisoner to say just one word, that he carries no ill-feeling to-day against any one on earth." Dr. Hatcher then turned and bade the prisoner farewell. Deputy Sergeant Allen tied his legs together and put the black cap over his head and adjusted it.

At 1:05 o'clock the trap was sprung, and the body of Cluverius shot downward so quickly that none could describe the scene as witnessed. The silk rope did poor service, and it was seen that the nose slipped and the rope stretched fearfully. The feet of Cluverius were just touching the ground, and only a turn and a half of the noose was left. Horror was on the face of the spectators present, and in a minute the police were ordering everyone to leave the premises. Dr. Oppenheimer examined the body, and at first said that the pulse was beating regularly; that there were guttural sounds for six minutes, gasps for breath, and indications of strangulation. The victim, however, did not writhe. His head hung on one side, and around the neck was a red livid mark made by the fall of eight feet. The color of the countenance commenced to change, and in sixteen minutes after the fall of the drop Dr. Harrison, Seale and Cabell pronounced life extinct. Dr. Oppenheimer said that the neck had been broken by the fall.

The body was turned over to an undertaker, and will be sent to King and Queen county for interment.

The trial of Cluverius in the spring of 1885, about two months after the body of his victim was found, lasted nearly a month and created a great sensation. Cluverius was charged with the murder of his cousin, Fannie Lillian Madison. The reader will remember that the body of this young lady, who was a collateral descendant of President Madison, was discovered in the Marshall, or old reservoir, outside of Richmond, Va., on March 14, 1885. Her murderer, who had a good social standing and is a collateral descendant of President Tyler, was found guilty on purely circumstantial evidence.

He is believed to have been the betrayer of Miss Madison, who, had she lived another two months, would have become a mother. He and she had been brought up together by their aunt, a well-to-do old lady of King and Queen county, Virginia. In the fall of 1884 Miss Madison took a position as governess in the mountain district of that state. She met Cluverius in Richmond on January 13, 1885, and again a week later, on March 13, the day on which she was murdered. On this second occasion she stated that she had secured employment as companion to a lady going to the seashore. This pretense was backed by a letter, which was proved a forgery, and is supposed to have been the work of Cluverius. No one but Cluverius knew of her arrival in Richmond. Her employer up in the mountains, her parents and her aunt all supposed her to be at Old Point Comfort. She was in company with Cluverius certainly as late as 9:15 in the evening, and within half a mile of the reservoir.

The only proof introduced directly to establish the presence of Cluverius himself within the reservoir grounds that night was a watch key found there. Several witnesses said they believed it was his, but none spoke positively on the subject. The topography of the neighborhood of the reservoir is against the theory that the girl committed suicide, and suggests that she was taken to the reservoir by somebody well acquainted with its surroundings, which she was not. It was shown in the trial that Miss Madison had threatened to expose Cluverius' guilt to her aunt and benefactor, that he was in a large measure dependent upon that lady for support, and that he was devotedly courting a young girl other than his cousin. The facts are thought to have furnished a probable motive for the murder.

At the trial the jury, after but a few minutes' consideration, returned a verdict of murder in the first degree. The prisoner throughout the trial was cool and unflinching and his self-possession was a fruitful theme of comment. His counsel excepted at every possible point in the evidence and asked for a new trial, which was refused, and Cluverius was sentenced to be hanged on November 20, 1885. An appeal was then taken to the supreme court of the state, which, however, availed the prisoner nothing, except that it stayed the execution for over a year, as the court with but one dissenting voice affirmed the judgment of the lower court. He was then rescheduled to be hanged December 10, 1886. The last report, the chief executive was finally applied to for pardon or commutation of sentence to life imprisonment, but the governor, after giving the case the most considerate attention, could find no reason for interfering with the sentence of the court. He, however, rescheduled the condemned man until to-day.

FIRE RECORD.

A Hundred Thousand Dollar Residence in Chicago—Blown to Bits.

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—The elegant residence of Mr. Norman B. Ream, one of the best known operators on the Chicago board of trade, No. 1918 Prairie avenue, was discovered to be on fire at about 2 o'clock this morning. When the fire department reached the scene the fire was in the top of the fourth story. The roof was covered with slate and well protected with iron braces and cornice, and for a time the firemen worked to a disadvantage.

The whole upper floor was in one apartment being finished for a ball room, and the fire had soon penetrated every part of it, and a dense smoke was pouring out of the doors and windows. The fire was confined to the upper story, and the pine joists and boarding of the mansard structure burned a long time. About 3:30 o'clock the firemen were ordered off the roof, the marshal saying it was hopeless. The lower floors were flooded with water. The origin of the fire is not known. The loss will reach $100,000, and it is thought to be covered by insurance.

Prairie Fires.

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 15.—Yesterday sparks from an engine set fire to prairies twenty-five miles north of Austin. There has been three months drouth. The grass is as dry as tinder and the flames spread like lightning before a stiff wind, burning 5,000 acres. A flock of 1,000 sheep was caught in the flames and all burned; 500 are already dead and a balance dying.

Hotel and Stables Burned.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 15.—The North Star hotel, on Main street, Frankford, was burned last night. Loss $25,000. The stables were also burned, and thirty horses perished. The loss is covered by insurance.

The C. & O. Strike Over.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Jan. 15.—The strike at the piers is over and the men resumed work to-day. Last night Gen. Wickam, vice president of the Chesapeake & Ohio, proposed to the men that all go to work, and that on April 1 he would consider an advance of wages. The new men who have been work will also be retained, the old force having been rather inadequate. This plan was agreed to. The troops will be withdrawn to-day.

A Farmer's Suicide.

MARIETTA, O., Jan. 15.—Alden Warren, living six miles back of Williamstown, W. Va., committed suicide Tuesday morning by hanging. He was a man about fifty-five years old, and leaves a wife and several children. No cause is assigned for the rash act.

CINCINNATI CONVENTION.

A CIRCULAR OF INFORMATION BEING DISTRIBUTED.

The Declaration and Objects of the Industrial Movement Sent to Labor Organizations—Both the Republican and Democratic Parties Condemned.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 15.—The National Industrial convention, to be held at Cincinnati, on February 23, is exciting considerable discussion in labor circles in Pittsburgh and throughout the state. There has been no definite step taken as yet in Pittsburgh for the election of delegates, though it is said that meetings will soon be called, and that this city will have a full representation at Cincinnati.

A circular is now being quietly distributed among labor organizations throughout the country, in which there is set forth a declaration of the principles and objects of the industrial movement, the plan of organization and the basis of representation. The circular is being sent out by the order of the National committee, of which B. S. Heath, of Chicago, is chairman. It is receiving special attention from the labor organizations to which it has been sent, as it will be but a short time now until the convention will be held at Cincinnati.

The circular first declares a recognition of the great fundamental principles of the Declaration of Independence, and claims that the objects of the framers of the constitution have been shamefully and treasonably overlooked by both the Democratic and Republican parties, which have vied with each other in betraying the interests of the people, and administering the government in the interest of corporate rings and money capitalists, which have fattened upon the sweat and blood of Nation's toilers.

The circular further claims that "these two parties have ignored every principle upon which the government was founded, and instituted systems and methods whose essential features are borrowed from feudal ages; that they have placed under monopoly all the natural resources and means of life, liberty and general prosperity; that they aim to protect an illegitimate wrong instead of natural rights; that they have established class distinctions founded on wealth, instead of promoting social equality; that they have given to a money oligarchy the monopoly and control of the medium of exchange, that it may command the harvest of labor for the use of the most vitalizing element of industry; that instead of protecting the public domain and holding it in trust for the families of the present and future generations, they have ruthlessly and shamefully squandered it upon soulless corporations and syndicates, thereby creating and fostering the most stupendous landlordism in the world; that they have granted to their confederates an absolute monopoly of the transportation of persons and property, as well as electric communications between distant points and localities, thereby subjecting both producer and consumer to an extortionate tribute, often beyond all reason, justice or necessity; that they have allowed bribery and other corrupt influences to control elections, making the possession of wealth, and not ability or moral worth, the chief qualifications for holding office; they have trampled upon the rights of laboring men and women, and by their aggressive and tyrannical over the producers of wealth and men's natural rights, the mass of people are being reduced to hopeless poverty and servile dependence. They have, through a pernicious system of finance, forced the people into helpless indebtedness; then denied them the means of payment, which has so reduced the value of products and the wages of labor as to make it impossible for the millions of producers to emancipate themselves from a condition bordering on slavery, except by means which their oppressors term repudiation."

The circular then states that the representatives of labor and productive industry appeal to their co-workers throughout the country that henceforth alliance and political connection with the Democratic and Republican parties be dissolved, and that they pledge themselves to unite for the overthrow of the pernicious and oppressive system which it is alleged the Democratic and Republican parties foster and promote, to the end that legitimate industry may be emancipated from the bondage under which it has been placed by unjust and class legislation, and the government restored to the people, to be administered by the people for the objects and purposes for which it was originally established.

The circular asks for the alliance and co-operation of the Knights of Labor, the various agricultural and soldiers' organizations, the National Greenback, anti-monopoly and People's parties, the trades' unions, temperance reformers, and all other persons who are in sympathy with the objects sought.

The plans of organization are an organization for each state and territory, the state organizer to appoint a district organizer for each congressional district in his state, and the district organizers are to appoint local organizers. Each congressional district will be entitled to one delegate to the convention.

POWDERLY'S REPLY.

He States His Position in Regard to the Attacks on His Policy.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 15.—A letter from General Master Workman Powderly, of the Knights of Labor, stating his position in regard to the recent attacks on his policy is published. After referring to the prosperous condition of the order throughout the country, notwithstanding reports of its dissolution, Mr. Powderly says: "I am literally besieged with correspondence endorsing my action in matters pertaining to the order, but find very few who attach importance to the attacks of individual newspapers. The unfair reference in the press to the $5,000 salary hurts my feelings most. I do not merit that kind of treatment. I always opposed a high salary for myself, and for several years promptly refused the offer from the general assembly, but at the last session found myself confronted and open to two charges, either of which was sure to prevail against me through the efforts of designing enemies in and outside the order. "First—If an advance of salary favored by the representatives at Richmond and the order at large was refused, then I would be dishonest, and certainly under compensation from the enemies of the order, or the grant labor to be performed would not be undertaken. Second—If an advance of salary was accepted, then it could be said it came from the hard working people of the country, and the services rendered were not adequate for the salary fixed. This was the unpleasant position of affairs, but no word in favor of the proposed action of the assembly came from me. Had my individual interests been consulted the offer of $100 per week made previous to the session at Hamilton would have been accepted, as the proposed labor would have called for but eight hours in the twenty-four. Since then four offers have come to me unsolicited, ranging from $5,000 to $8,000 a year for my services in business pursuits, four of which now stand open for my acceptance.

"The duties of the position held in the order require close and exhaustive mental labor anywhere from twelve to eighteen hours a day, and therefore cannot be considered a sinecure. My purpose to stand by the order, regardless of the action of enemies within or without cannot be shaken. I worked for the organization when the privilege of doing so was paid for, and the few individuals now in the order who are assailing me through sinister motives were doing their utmost to prevent the success of its principles when they were out of the order. I shall continue to work for the purposes and teachings of the Knights of Labor, pay or no pay, until my life's labor ends. The work of years must not, shall not, be thrown away to gratify enemies of right and justice."

HENRY GEORGE'S POSITION.

He Has No Political Aspirations and is Satisfied With the Standard.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—In this week's issue of the Standard, Henry George will say: "In the comments of the press upon the article in the last number of the Standard, entitled, 'The Case of Dr. McGlynn,' the opinion is very generally expressed that in attacking the Catholic church, Henry George has forever destroyed his political aspirations and the Standard has committed suicide at birth. As to this it may be worth while to say that I have no political aspirations. If I had I would not have re-entered journalism. I long ago made up my mind never to seek office. If I ever hold one, it will be because the people want me and not that I want it myself. I have chosen another path—a path in which political aspirations can only hamper and begot.

"As for the Standard, it may be said that its success thus far has exceeded the most sanguine expectations of those engaged in it, and that we have good reason to feel that it has been safely launched. But if the time ever comes when the Standard cannot freely and frankly take a stand on any question of public interest, then it will be high time for it to give up the ghost."

DEADLY DYNAMITE.

Two Explosions, One Blowing a Dummy Up and Injuring Passengers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—Two explosions occurred to-day on the Sutter street cars, one of them quite serious. Train 14 had reached a cross street, when the dummy was thrown into the air and three passengers were sent flying. Mrs. Hildebrandt was picked up insensible. Her injuries are serious. Her limbs were paralyzed from the shock. Her brother-in-law and her husband escaped injury. The gripman was blown clear out of the car to the opposite sidewalk, while a policeman followed him through the air. Both men were injured. The dummy was smashed to pieces and the seats were splintered into match wood. It is supposed that the damage done was due to dynamite cartridge, the explosion breaking all the windows in the vicinity, and being audible all over the city. No arrests have been made as yet.

The other explosion was also on the street car tracks, but caused no injury. A great number of bombs are being daily found by the police.

Another Coal Miners' Riot.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Jan. 15.—There was another riot last night at the Pleasant Valley mine of the Hillside Coal company, where a strike has been in progress since last October. One of the strikers was arrested yesterday, for interfering with the men who are working in place of the strikers. He was taken to the justice's office. A mob of over 1,000 persons surrounded the office, broke in, and released the prisoner. The police officers fled and were pursued by the crowd. Several shots were fired by the rioters. The officers finally took refuge in the depot and escaped on a train for Scranton.

Stolen From the Tiffin Wreck.

TIFFIN, O., Jan. 15.—It is reliably reported that in the express messenger's safe which was in the recent Baltimore & Ohio wreck, there was $30,000 worth of diamonds, which have disappeared. The safe was found, but it was rifled of its precious contents. The Baltimore & Ohio company have placed watchmen at the scene of the wreck to prevent any more relic hunters from plying their vocation.

Indorsing the Interstate Commerce Bill. DENVER, Col., Jan. 15.—The Denver chamber of commerce and board of trade, at their annual meeting last night unanimously adopted resolutions endorsing the interstate commerce bill, and requesting the Colorado delegates in congress to vote for the bill and use all honorable means to secure its passage. The state press association during the day adopted similar resolutions.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 15.—The majority report of the house election committee favorable to naming Meagher and giving the place to Dickerson, Republican, will probably be favorably voted on. This will make it a tie vote on joint ballot. The Republicans are professing that this will end the contests in the house, and the other cases won't be pressed. If true, this is a radical change from the program outlined, and indications point to a probable change with the Knights of Labor. It is quite certain Harrison will receive the caucus nomination.

Died of His Injuries.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—A man named McHenry, one of the coal haulers who were driven from work at Washawken, Thursday, by riotous strikers, has died at the hospital from the effects of his injuries. He had been hit on the head with a crowbar.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

DAILY, EXCEPT SUNDAY.

ROSSER & MCCARTHY,
Proprietors.

SATURDAY EVENING, JAN. 15, 1887.

The United States Senate passed the Inter-State Commerce bill last night. Vote 43 to 15.

HON. J. DEXTER KEHOE has been chosen a delegate to the International Typographical Union, that meets in Buffalo, N. Y., next June.

THE Democrats of Indiana believe in a peaceable settlement of the trouble over the Lieutenant Governorship, but the Republicans want "to rule or ruin."

MADISONVILLE, this State, is rejoicing over the discovery of a coal mine in that immediate vicinity. The town is also to be connected by railroad with the canal coal fields of Muhlenberg County.

THE mass of the people of Harrison County are said to favor the Hewitt Revenue law. Such will be the case all over the State when the bill has been tested, and its one or two objectionable features are cut out.

IT'S Turpie or Harrison for United States Senator in Indiana. The latter wants to succeed himself. There's nothing wrong in this, but the Democrats are determined that Judge Turpie shall step into Senator H's shoes.

JUDGES S. E. DEHAVEN writes the Shelby Sentinel that he will not make the race for Governor. His decision was made "after a careful survey of his surroundings, both public and private." This gives the Democrats one less candidate to choose from.

THE Indiana Legislature will meet in joint session next Wednesday to ballot for a United States Senator, at least that's the time appointed. Lively times are predicted. Both parties are determined to have their rights, and it's hard to tell what the result will be.

OVER in Harrison County, legislative candidates are confronted with the free turnpike question, the new revenue law and the temperance question. Opposition to either measure will lose many a vote, and the candidates will have to be careful in trimming their sails to the popular breeze.

OUT in Kansas prohibition prevails to a large extent, and it is said that whisky is actually prescribed in three hundred and fifty different diseases. The list runs all the way up from an ordinary in-growing nail to the worst disease known. Verily, a little red liquor is a wonderful remedy—in the mind of some people.

THE people of Mt. Sterling voted in favor of liquor selling two years ago, but the local option folks claimed the vote was illegal, and the Superior Court has decided they were right. The whisky interests will take the case to the Court of Appeals, and if the decision is sustained the saloon-keepers will be called upon to answer for their violation of the law for the past two years.

IN speaking of Speaker Carlisle's candidacy for the U. S. Senate, Congressman Taulbee says: "Mr. Carlisle is as good as there now. The matter has been discussed considerably in my section of the State, and when the Speaker's name is mentioned, other men have been eliminated. We regard him as the greatest man in the Union. I know how I would vote if I were a Representative in the Legislature, for John G. Carlisle. I think his statement settles the Senatorial contest in Kentucky."

Grand Inducements.

DR. E. D. STANDIFORD, of Louisville, is credited with saying that "Kentucky is not only richer in agricultural products, but far richer in mineral products than Ala. She has a wonderful advantage in her geographical situation and is very near the center of population in the United States, and yet capital is pouring into Alabama to-day at the rate of a thousand dollars where only one dollar comes into Kentucky, but by the same energy and vim, capital can be brought into this State, as in my opinion, no other section offers as grand inducements for profitable investments."

Mason County's Assessment.

Assessor John R. Burgess and his assistants completed their recapitulation of the assessment of the county last evening. The following is a summary of the result:

Assessed value of land.....$5,573,245
Assessed value of lots.....1,814,000
Assessed value of personalty.....1,701,741
Total assessment by Assessors.....$9,089,741
Added by Board of Supervisors.....365,297
Grand total.....$9,504,338
Total assessment of 1886.....7,165,060
Increase.....$2,339,278
As will be seen, the total increase in the assessed value of property, over that of last year, under the Hewitt Revenue bill, amounts to $2,339,278.

Pithy Points From Washington.

It is highly probable that in the near future a vote will be taken in Mason County as to whether or not whisky shall continue to reign over us.

When that time comes it will be to the interest of every man in the county, except bar-keepers, liquor dealers and distillers, to cast their votes against whisky. Every man will then get a chance to show his hand on this important question, and, although there will be plenty of sneaks and stay-at-homes, we shall find enough good and true men to beat rum.

It will be to the interest of all men who have sons, and who would rather they would make sober men than drunken brutes, to vote against whisky when they are called upon.

It will be to the interest of all church members, to say nothing of christians, to cast their votes against that which is more hurtful to the cause of christianity than all other evils combined.

It will be to the interest of all people who pay taxes to cast their votes against the thing which is directly responsible for high taxes, in the support of paupers and almshouses and prosecution of criminals brought about by the liquor traffic.

Let no man be gulled into voting for whisky by the claim that there will be no market for his corn when there is no liquor made. There could not be a more foolish claim made than this, for whisky don't make a market for anything except jails, penitentiaries and gallows.

It will be a grand thing for the generation of young men coming on when whisky is banished from among them. They can then make something of themselves besides bleary-eyed drunkards, as so many their predecessors have.

What argument can any man or set of men adduce as a plea for any one to vote in favor of rum? If they will attempt to show any good it has ever done mankind, we will show where it has been the cause of all murders, poverty and crime, which have cursed the world almost since the beginning of time.

A CURE FOR LAZINESS.

How an Indiana Man Was Taught a Valuable Lesson.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Jan. 15.—Sam Daily, residing near Attica, sixteen miles from here, was waited on by a committee of citizens of that place last night. Sam was in bed. His wife was in the woodshed splitting the morrow's supply of fuel. The committee of visitors had an eye to the eternal fitness of things, and an ominous frown settled over their countenances when they observed the state of all things. At their solicitation Mrs. Daily dropped her ax and entered the house, to become an interested observer of what transpired. Mr. Daily was invited to arise. He got up. The committee told him to put on his pants and boots. He put them on.

"Now, then," said the spokesman, "aren't you ashamed to let your wife do all the work while you lay abed? Sam Daily, you're a lazy hunk." After this brief sermon the committee escorted Sam to the barnyard, put a harness on him, hitched him to a sled and made him haul wood from the forest until midnight. He was then unhitched, an ax given him and he was told to "hump himself." He lopped and Mrs. Daily now has a week's supply on hand. Daily has been married a long time and shamefully neglected his family. Rather than run him out of the village the good citizens decided on this wholesome mode of punishment. They did not desist until he promised that in the future he would support his wife and seven babies in a comfortable manner.

A GREAT DISAPPOINTMENT.

Mr. McDonald's Presidential Aspirations Cruelly Shattered.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Indiana's McDonald Democrats in this city, and there are in a majority, are very much disappointed and disgusted over the nomination by the caucus at Indianapolis, last night, of Judge David Turpie for the United States senate, and it is no secret that they hope Senator Harrison will be elected. Judge Turpie, they say, has never done anything for the party, and represents no interest in it, while Mr. McDonald has been to the front for years.

The fact is the McDonald Democrats hoped for his election, because he would then be pushed forward by the party, not only in this state but in the entire west and south against Cleveland for nomination for the presidency in 1888. Defeat in his contest, at this time, they regard as an estoppel to McDonald's political ascendency. It is believed by Indiana Democrats and Republicans here that the four Lysior-Democratic members, who refused to go into the caucus, will vote for Harrison.

Toledo Wins an Important Case.

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 15.—A case involving the title to a large tract of land in the heart of this city, has just been decided by Judge Jackson in the United States court in favor of this city. The land in question is the canal bed abandoned years ago. The strip is worth hundreds of thousands of dollars and claim to it was made by D. R. St. John, of New York. He held that the state merely held an easement on the property, and that when it was abandoned for canal purposes it reverted back to the original owners. The case will be carried to the United States supreme court. The property includes the library grounds, the No. 3 engine house grounds and land on which Memorial hall is built.

Fighting for a Wife.

SHELBYVILLE, Ill., Jan. 15.—It is said that William Camp and Charles Mize, who have long loved the same maiden, fought recently for the palm of cupid with nature's weapons on the agreement that the one who first showed the white feather should yield in the strife of love. The fight was witnessed by concealed spectators. Both the lovers were badly punished and, it is said, victory was won by Camp. It is now rumored that a lawsuit will spring out of the affair.

Removal.

Dr. G. M. Williams has removed his dental office to building on Third street, adjoining Dr. Shackleton's office.

Any Small Boy, with a stick, can kill a tiger—if the tiger happens to be found when only a little cub. So consumption, that deadliest and most feared of diseases, in this country, can assuredly be conquered and destroyed if Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" be employed early.

Gilbert-Huntley Comedy Company.

"Van, the Virginian," as presented at the opera house last night by the Gilbert-Huntley Comedy Company, was a thoroughly enjoyable entertainment. A large audience was in attendance, and the frequent applause which rang through the house attested their appreciation of the splendid rendition of the different characters. During the week's engagement Miss Gilbert and Mr. Huntley have won a warm place in the hearts of our theatergoers. Their impersonation of the many different characters in which they have appeared has been life-like, and has evoked the warmest applause from their audiences. Their voice, their expression, their gestures are all so natural that the crowd see before them the characters which are being presented, and the enjoyment of the play is complete. And their support has been splendid throughout. Mr. S. B. McElreth, Mr. George B. Berrell and Mr. George Scott, as the "funny men," have played their parts so well that their every appearance has been the signal for applause. Especially is this true of Mr. Berrell. As to the rest of the company, Miss Alice Newton and Miss Margaret Tennant deserve particular mention. Their lively and vivacious manners, and the ease and naturalness which characterize their acting have added largely to the enjoyment of the plays. All in all, the company is one of the best that has ever appeared in Maysville, and our readers will be glad to learn that special arrangements have been made to continue the engagement three nights next week. Matinee this afternoon, at which "Our Boys and Our Girls" will be played. To-night, "The Pink Dominoes" will be presented for the first time in this city. Let every seat be occupied.

"The play's the thing, wherein I'll reach the conscience of the king." And equally true is it that Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" (the original Little Liver Pills) are the most effectual means that can be used to reach the seat of disease, cleansing the bowels and system, and assisting nature in her recuperative work. A Correction.

"At the conclusion of the exercises last Sunday evening the officers of the Baptist Church settled in full with A. H. Knoll, the cornet player, and politely notified him that his services were no longer needed."—Republican.

The above statement is incorrect. Mr. Knoll was paid up to Sunday night, but not "notified his services were no longer needed." Mr. Knoll has "politely" resigned, and the church and choir regret exceedingly having to accept.

BAPTIST CHURCH CHOIR.

Pleasant School Examination.

The patrons of Professor Wilson's and Miss Ella Metcalfe's rooms of the High School were delightfully entertained by a (to this city) novel examination on Thursday evening. The City Superintendent prepared for these rooms questions for the semi-annual examination. This examination is written. The papers of each pupil—about a dozen pages of legal cap—after being carefully graded by the teacher, were placed on the pupil's desk. So there was for inspection the work of each pupil, and the work of every other pupil to compare it with. The patrons being invited to call and see what progress their children were making, as evidenced by these papers on Thursday afternoon, responded to the number of about twenty-five. And it was, we believe, the universal verdict that this was, by far, more satisfactory than any oral examination could possibly be. There was ten times more work from each pupil. The work was in more satisfactory form. Not only what the pupils knew but what they could do was shown. The element of neatness and business appearance characterized all by the work; and the work of each pupil being placed on his desk and there examined, and its mistakes criticised by his parents, friends and acquaintances, is an incentive to greater excellence that even the duldest must heed.

These are a few of the advantages of such an examination; the reader's mind will doubtless suggest many more. And I only wish to add that the papers found on the pupil's desk were in the highest sense satisfactory, and complimentary, not only to the pupils, but to their teachers, Professor Wilson and Miss Metcalfe. And these are only the beginning, for, as we understand, all of the other rooms will have a similar examination and exposition of the papers early next month. We bespeak for them a large attendance of the patrons, for we believe that these examinations are the harbingers of great success in our city schools. L. W. GALBRAITH.

"I want something to cure my cough. I have tried our doctor, and almost every proprietary medicine I ever heard of, but nothing seems to do me any good," a lady said to the clerk in a large drug-store.

"Gooch's Mexican Syrup gives the most general satisfaction of any thing we have ever sold, and is pronounced by some of our most prominent people to be the best remedy for coughs and lung troubles ever put upon the market. We sell more of it than all other cough remedies put together. You see our customers risk nothing in buying, as the proprietors authorize all druggists to guarantee it; so if this does not give you satisfaction, we will refund the money. It has made some remarkable cures," he replied.

A WORD TO CONSUMPTIVES. Consumptives, because all other things fail, believe not that Gooch's Mexican Syrup will. CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED. Tuberculous matter is nothing more than nourishment imperfectly organized. Now, if we can procure the organization of this food material so that through the process of electric affinity it may take its place in the system, we can cure the disease. This is just what Gooch's Mexican Syrup does: It at once stops the progress of the disease by preventing the further supply of tuberculous matter, for while the system is under its influence all nourishment is organized and assimilated. It controls Coughs, Night-Sweats, and all other symptoms of consumption. GOOCH'S MEXICAN SYRUP HAS CURED THOUSANDS AND IT WILL CURE YOU.

This remedy is pleasant to the taste, and may be given to children with perfect safety. It affords immediate relief.
